Hi everyone,

Here we are! In Holy Week… the strangest of Holy Weeks, but nevertheless, Holy!

Thanks to everyone who sent in pictures of the palm adorned front doorways. Parishioners loved seeing one another’s doors. I think it made us all feel a bit more connected to one another.

As we begin this week centred on the life, death and resurrection of Christ – the very centre of our faith, I thought I would touch base again. I have compiled a list of what I believe to be the best At-Home Holy Week Resources.

Best Resources for Celebrating Holy Week/Easter Triduum at Home

- Here is a great resource from Liturgical Press for families as we celebrate Holy Week at Home. This is also available in Spanish: Semana Santa en Casa
- The Easter Triduum with Dan Schutte promises to be very good. (You will recognize Dan Schutte as the composer of many of your favourite liturgical hymns including Here I am, Lord.)
- The bishops of Ireland have prepared a beautifully designed and well-written outline for celebrating the liturgies at home while watching them livestreamed - Bringing Holy Week Home
- The Jesuit Post has also prepared short home liturgies - How to Celebrate the Triduum at Home

Other Resources for Learning about Holy Week

- There are many great prayer and learning resources on the Celebrating the Liturgical Year section of our Website. Scroll down to Holy Week to find the material for this week.
- Holy Week Resources in both Spanish and English from Sadlier are available at: Holy Week at Resources for Families

Remember that we live-stream Mass every day and will also live-stream all the liturgies of Holy Week. Please join us! Here’s a video invitation:
